FOREWORD

The 1986 Election Financing Fact Book is published by the Washington State Public Disclosure Commission pursuant to its authority as contained in RCW 42.17.370(2) to publish reports and statistics concerning campaign financing so that such information may be fully disclosed to the public.

Material in this book is based on reports as filed by candidates and political committees, most of them unaudited. Every effort has been made to assure accuracy of calculations in compiling the statements in this book.

The state PDC reports due on January 10, 1987, showing activity through the last day of 1986, are included in this analysis. Any contributions or expenditures reported after that time are not included.

The lists of major contributors are derived from the reports filed by the candidates. Time and resources did not permit thorough cross-checking with reports filed by all the contributing entities.

LEGISLATIVE CAMPAIGN FINANCE -- 1986

The 283 candidates for the Washington state legislature in 1986 reported more than $7,617,000 in campaign contributions. This sum included $257,000 carried over from previous campaigns and $266,000 of the candidates' own money. Other principal sources included transfers from other candidates, $301,000; the four legislative caucus campaign committees, $284,000; and other Democratic and Republican party organizations, $388,000.

The top 12 political action committees in the state gave a total of $1,632,000 to candidates, led by United for Washington with $334,000 and the Washington Federation of State Employees with $294,000. Some analysis of the contributions by these 12 committees can be found on page 201.

The largest corporate contributor was The Boeing Company, which gave more than $86,000.

The major contributors listed in this section are those whose contributions to a single candidate amounted to $200 or more. A total of 7,210 such contributions were recorded, amounting to $4,861,000, or about 64 percent of the total that the candidates had available to spend on their campaigns. Approximately 56,500 contributions of amounts less than $200 provided another $2,050,000.

Earmarked contributions--usually going directly from a PAC to a political party organization and intended to be used on behalf of one or more specific candidates--were reported much more extensively in 1986 than in any previous election year. In compiling this Fact Book, every effort was made to attribute such contributions to the original source rather than the intermediary committee, but some exceptions may have occurred.

The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions. It emphasizes that every entry, no matter how small, should be carefully documented to ensure the integrity of the financial data. This includes recording dates, amounts, and the nature of the transactions.

The second part of the document provides a detailed breakdown of the company's expenses for the quarter. It lists various categories such as salaries, rent, utilities, and materials, and provides a clear summary of the total costs incurred. This section is crucial for understanding the company's financial health and identifying areas for cost reduction.

The third part of the document outlines the company's revenue for the same period. It details the sales from different products and services, as well as any other income sources. This information is essential for calculating the company's profit and assessing its overall performance.

The final part of the document concludes with a summary of the financial results and a recommendation for future actions. It suggests that the company should continue to monitor its expenses closely and explore new revenue opportunities to ensure long-term success.
